IMPACT REPORT

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD CHAIRS

Tom Campbell
President & CEO

Mary Jo Cagle, MD
Board Chair

David Black
Immediate Past Chair

We have much to celebrate as we close out our 2023-2024 fiscal year. We served more than 16,500 unique individuals and families dealing with domestic violence, sexual assault, child abuse, mental health, substance use and financial instability. Our Outreach Team provided specialized education and information to almost 10,000 people. Our Staff Engagement was a strong 85%, compared to a national engagement rate of 33%, and we saw a 22% decrease in staff turnover. Lastly, we saw a 30% increase in revenue generated by program fees as a percentage of total revenue, allowing us to be less reliant on the ups and downs of grant funding.

A major driver behind our continued success has been our unwavering commitment to a dynamic and evolving strategic plan. This plan empowers us to anticipate challenges rather than merely respond to them. It informs every decision we make and is reinforced by a culture of accountability, measured through regular quarterly reviews. At its heart, our strategic plan is designed to meet the ever-changing needs of the community by offering innovative, high-impact services that align with our vision and mission. It also focuses on cultivating a positive workplace culture that attracts, retains and engages top talent, while reinforcing the infrastructure and fundraising efforts needed to maintain long-term stability and support future growth.

Our success is also rooted in our steadfast dedication to our mission and core values. We believe in treating every person with dignity and respect; operating with integrity, transparency and accountability; and prioritizing the safety and well-being of families. This has earned us an impressive 97% client satisfaction rate. From addressing child abuse, domestic violence and sexual assault to tackling mental health challenges, substance use and financial instability, our agency remains deeply committed to helping children, adults and families overcome these significant challenges. We continually pursue excellence through innovation, adaptability, collaboration and a relentless focus on delivering high-quality services, supported by an exceptional team of dedicated staff.

Our achievements this year would not have been possible without the leadership of our Board, the dedication of our staff, and the unwavering support from our Foundations, Guilds, funders and volunteers. Their contributions ensure that Family Service of the Piedmont can meet the needs of more clients and make an even greater impact across our community.

Lila's marriage was a nightmare. Trafficked by her husband and exploited as a domestic worker, she faced constant control and abuse. Her husband gave her limited access to their finances, demanded she wash clothes by hand because he didn't trust the washing machine, and insisted on fresh meals daily, refusing to eat leftovers. On top of these burdens, Lila was solely responsible for caring for their two children. To tighten his grip, her husband installed cameras in the house and car to monitor her every move.

Courageously, Lila made the difficult decision to leave and turned to Family Service of the Piedmont, where she filed a protective order and began the daunting task of rebuilding her life. Through Family Service, Lila was provided counseling and case management services and she was empowered to focus on healing, building her self-esteem, and learning crucial life skills.

She was determined to secure a better future and set ambitious goals: achieve financial independence, secure stable housing, and obtain reliable transportation for herself and her children.

One of Lila's proudest achievements was purchasing her own vehicle—a powerful symbol of her newfound independence. The car not only made her daily commute to school possible but also gave her the freedom to care for her children and access essential community resources.

Having made remarkable progress in her recovery, Lila is eagerly embracing her independence. Her journey from oppression to empowerment stands as a testament to her strength and resilience.

Fifteen year old Mackenzie* began therapy with Family Service after disclosing to her family that she had experienced a terrible trauma.

Although there were lots of things to work through in therapy, Mackenzie's most dire issue was that she hadn't been able to get herself to school in the mornings. Working with her therapist, they began problem solving by considering questions such as: How do we make sure that you're tired enough to sleep? How do we get your space cozy? How much can your parents help?

One day Mackenzie was very upset during her session and while coloring she told her therapist about her "whale" which is what she had named her depression. She expressed this "whale" would swim by during the night and cause her to cry for hours, exhausting her and making her unable to wake up.

Just as quickly as she shared, she stopped. Her therapist encouraged her to continue coloring and let Mackenzie know that she was there if she wanted to speak, and if she didn't. They sat in silence for a long time, all the while her therapist would check in to see if she was okay until eventually, the session ended.

It might sound like not much was accomplished. However, this was the moment Mackenzie's therapist earned her trust. After this, Mackenzie was able to learn coping strategies to manage the "whale", ways to communicate her emotions, and how to connect with her family. Eventually she was able to get back to school.

Today, Mackenzie is a talkative, vibrant, teenager, and because of the support from Family Service and her therapist her future is looking brighter than she ever thought possible.

Monica's life took an unexpected turn when she gave birth to triplets prematurely. With her husband and extended family overseas, she faced the challenges of new motherhood largely alone, relying on support from peers and professors in her PhD program. Monica struggled to balance her academic commitments with caring for three newborns.

Enter the Healthy Start Program—a lifeline that transformed Monica's journey from overwhelming to manageable. As she brought her triplets home, the program's team began making weekly visits that quickly became a vital source of support. These visits went beyond providing essential items like diapers, wipes, and clothes; they offered moments of comfort and connection that Monica and her children came to treasure. Story time, where caseworkers would sit down to read 1-2 books with the children, became a simple yet impactful part of their early development.

Reflecting on her journey, Monica shared, "Healthy Start didn't just provide material assistance; it gave me a sense of community and the confidence to thrive as a mother and a student. I am profoundly grateful for this program's impact on my family's life."

Today, Monica's triplets are now toddlers, thriving just as she is. Thanks to the support of Healthy Start, Monica emerged stronger, with a degree in hand and a bright future ahead.

Beachy Allen and Nancy Amos

2024 Julia B. Nile For Love of Family Award Recipients

James K. Weeks

Beachy Allen and Nancy Amos have left an indelible mark on the Family Service of High Point Foundation through their service, mentorship, and unwavering support. Joining the Foundation Trustees in July 2012, both served until 2020.

In 2013, they were invited to mentor the newly formed High Point Guild. Embracing this role with enthusiasm, they became affectionately known as the "Fairy Godmothers" for their ability to bring the Guild's ideas and events to life. Their dedication and wise counsel have continued well beyond their trustee roles, with their mentorship extending into the present day.

Over the years, both women have supported numerous fundraising events for the agency and served on the Oyster Roast committee. Beachy has hosted the Guild's Fall Kick-Off at her home, while Nancy, alongside her husband Lin, has hosted the Pearls Party for the event. Together, they have supported, strategized, and advocated for the High Point Guild, remaining vital figures in its ongoing success.

As a young child growing up in SC, I watched Joey the Clown, the star of my favorite TV show. His actions not only made me laugh but always centered around being kind to others. His daily sign-off was 'Let's work together because all we truly have in this 'ol world is each other'. This made a lasting impression on me. When I was introduced to Family Service at the very first Oyster Roast (thank you, Lin Amos), I was immediately drawn to the wonderful work they do in our community and was eager to get involved.

Family Service of the Piedmont exemplifies all the things that mean so much to me. It has been an honor and a pleasure to support the passionate staff and the incredible programs implemented through the years that reflect the changing needs in our community. I look forward to continuing my involvement with Family Service as they help families gain confidence, feel safe in their environment, and learn skills to face today's tough challenges.

Nancy echoes Beachy's words adding, "Family Service uplifts and empowers those in need, and after being introduced to the agency through my husband Lin's involvement, I quickly realized the invaluable and essential work they do in the community."

Jim's service began in 2012 when he joined the Greensboro Foundation Board of Trustees for a three-year term. He then served an additional three years, through 2018, bringing a deep commitment to the foundation's mission. His contributions were instrumental, particularly as Treasurer from 2017 to 2020, where he helped develop and refine investment policies for the foundation's endowment. In addition to his role as Treasurer, Jim served on the Investment, Advancement, and Finance Committees.

Jim's dedication extended beyond his time with the Greensboro Foundation. In 2020, he joined the Family Service of the Piedmont Board, serving until 2023.

Especially significant was his work on the Strategic Plan Committee, where he played a key role in guiding the agency from a deficit model to one of abundance. His leadership ensured that the strategic plan was implemented across all levels of the organization, fundamentally changing the way Family Service of the Piedmont approached its mission.

Jim has been a steadfast advocate for the agency's work, contributing both financially and through his invaluable service. He has supported the Annual Campaign and the agency's signature fundraising event, the Oyster Roast.

Reflecting on his long-standing involvement, Jim stated, "Over the past 25 plus years, Sally and I, as have many others, supported and given our time, talent and money to various organizations working to strengthen our Greater Greensboro communities. For us, Family Service has been first among those organizations because of our passion for its mission, our deep belief that its vision of building safe and healthy families is a cornerstone to enriching today's and future citizens' lives and their communities, and our confidence that its boards, volunteers, leadership and staff will continue delivering impactful life-changing programs and services."

Jim has had a transformative impact on Family Service of the Piedmont and his dedication to the well-being of children and families has left an indelible mark on the Greater Greensboro area.

Families First Honor Societies
